OUR CO-FOUNDER

Over 10 years, Amar Naise has worked in MNC's like West London Bank, Hewlett-Packard and Lehman Brothers in countries like Japan, France, England and Hong Kong. While working, Amar discovered how few team members sharpen their leadership and evolve at a faster rate than others; they develop a quality of thinking and action that keeps them at the top of their game.

With realization of the need to spread this message, Amar started speak about it in public and gradually evolved as a Corporate Trainer with sound IT background.

WHAT ARE SOFT SKILLS?

Soft Skills are a behavioristic psychology term for an individual's approach in real time work situation. It is an umbrella term which includes communicative skills, listening skills, teamwork skills, leadership quality, creativity and logical thinking, problem solving, diplomacy and change readiness.

Soft Skills relate to “how you communicate” not “what you communicate”.

COMMUNICATION SKILLS

Effective communication skills include oral skills for public speaking, presentations, negotiating, conflict resolutions, knowledge-sharing; writing skills for preparing reports, proposals, instruction manuals, writing memos, official correspondence etc. It also includes a combination of verbal and non-verbal skills.

TEAMWORK SKILLS

Interpersonal and teamwork skills contribute to higher productivity and better environment as people work together to reach common goals. Some individuals are born leader or intuitively adopt the traits required in team work.

However, in general, these skills need to be taught or can be learnt through practice and awareness. This skill has four dimensions namely - cooperation, communication, work ethic and leadership

TEAMWORK SKILLS

Cooperation requires demonstrating the ability to compromise on their views, treating team members with respect, and working within a consensus of the team.

Communication here requires a dynamic interaction among team members and inviting and providing feedback and resolving conflict.

TEAMWORK SKILLS

Work Ethics includes accepting responsibility for assigned work, completing any assigned tasks and doing so on-time, and offering assistance to other team members when required.

Leadership is certainly desirable for each team member to demonstrate. This includes helping to provide structure by initiating action, clarifying concepts and problems, and summarizing activities and results.

PERSONAL SKILLS

Many people wonder why they do not have the success they want! Most of the time, the reason will be right under their nose; they are just unable to see it. The first thing that someone should ask is, "Am I successful in my personal life and relationships?"

PERSONAL SKILLS

Personal skills are those skills which make you not only acceptable and respectable in society and at the work place but also help you in getting a good job and better career growth. They include ability to make decisions, alertness, assertiveness, attention to details, calmness, commitment, cooperation, emotional stability, empathy, flexibility, generosity, tolerance, self-confidence, self-control, self-reliance, and self-respect.

PROBLEM SOLVING SKILLS

In your day to day life, you often come across such situations where you are unable to make right decisions. You are more likely to get into such conditions when you are working in an organisation. To deal with such stress, you need to develop some skills which may help you in making decisions, developing creative and innovative solutions, developing practical solutions, showing independence and initiative in identifying problems and solving them, applying a range of strategies to problem-solving, applying problem-solving strategies across a range of areas.

ADAPTABILITY & WORK ETHICS

An employer requires a whole set of skills to develop adaptability like communicating across cultures, getting along with others in a multi-cultural work environment, respect for others' faith and belief systems, avoiding racial/cultural discrimination at the workplace.

ADAPTABILITY & WORK ETHICS

Work ethic is a set of values based on the moral virtues of hard work and diligence. It is also a belief in moral benefit of work and its ability to enhance character of the employer or any individual. A work ethic may include being reliable, having initiative or maintaining social skills. Apart from that a sense of responsibility, honesty and commitment may also be included in it.

“

Training is not just an ability to build a great leadership within your teams, it's a tool to reflect your ability to customers. It's a spiritual face of your company.” - Amar Naise, Co-Founder
